SITUATIONAL LEADERSHIP WORKSHOP
November 14, 2018
Asheville, NC

The Situational Leadership workshop is an interactive and dynamic developmental session where we will introduce and discuss how best to apply the effective principles and approaches of The Situational Leadership Model popularized by renowned leadership and management experts Ken Blanchard and Paul Hersey.

Our high demand and ever-changing work environment requires that our leadership interactions with our staff be as effective and efficient as possible. Additionally, the diverse experiences, skills, and needs of our employees impacts more than ever how we manage, lead and inspire our work force.

The Situational Leadership Model suggests that there is no “one size fits all” approach to leadership. Depending on the situation, varying levels or approaches of “leadership” and “management” are necessary. However, leaders must first identify their most important tasks or priorities. Second, leaders must consider the readiness level of their employees by assessing their ability and willingness. Depending on the level of these variables, leaders must apply the most appropriate leadership style to fit the given situation.

The four different styles of situational leadership we will explore are:

1. Delegating
2. Coaching
3. Directing
4. Supporting

Through this workshop, you will learn and practice the four core styles of situational leadership. You will come out of this course feeling confident and motivated and have the applicable tools and skills you can start to apply immediately to empower yourself and your leadership teams.

This session will be led by Mark Gogal, a highly motivated Human Resources Leader with 25 years of progressive, global, and diverse human resources experience, practical business partnering expertise, strong organizational and analytical skills, and proven strategic management experience. Mark has a multi-faceted background in developing and implementing core HR programs/practices in both the private and public sectors. He is an enthusiastic, energetic, and passionate trainer and facilitator who truly enjoys developing others to reach their fullest potential both professionally and personally.

Mark has conducted a variety of professional and leadership development sessions for NCHCFA during the past year and has developed a deep knowledge of our industry.
