SUMMARY

Representatives from NC Emergency Management, NC Division of Health Service Regulation, and NC Division of Public Health will be presenting a webinar on hurricane preparedness and response during the COVID-19 pandemic. This session will include information about emergency management resources available through both NC EM and the regional healthcare preparedness coalitions, as well as various assets available before, during, and after times of emergency. The webinar will also provide information on the relevant regulatory requirements, and offer public health guidance for consideration for both those facilities sheltering-in-place and those facilities faced with a need to evacuate. As a more active than usual hurricane season is expected in the Atlantic this year, we hope members will join this important event.
